“Your mind or spirit is continually giving out its force or thought, or receiving some quality of such force, as an electric battery may be sending out its energy and may be afterwards replenished. When you use your force in talking, or writing, or physical effort of any sort, you are positive. When not so using it, you are negative. When negative, or receptive, you are receiving force or element of some kind or quality, which may do you temporary harm or permanent good.”

So begins New Thought pioneer Prentice Mulford's "The God in You," a book that provides practical mental recipes for learning to love yourself, the art of forgetting, and learning how to learn.

I really enjoyed reading this book as it gave me good insight on things I can do to help me along in my journey..One thing it offered that I have been using, is it asked to find a word on something I needed in my journey and then put it out there..I asked for COURAGE.. I even wrote it on my mirror in my bedroom to see in passing..This word has helped me as I call upon it every time my stinking thinking gets into play..Mind over matter and I matter...IT WORKS!!!
